

Effortlessly Capture Critical Business Information.

Web Forms Management Software
with GlobalForms®

Extend document automation with intuitive web forms that eliminate repetitive data entry. With GlobalForms you can easily create company-specific web forms that gather only the relevant data needed, improving the quality of captured information, and allowing for real-time engagement with your audience.

GlobalForms delivers the ability to automatically capture and extract high value form data.

Easily build web forms through an intuitive browser-based designer that offers a library of common forms, plus simple drag-and-drop elements including text boxes, drop downs, images, and more.

Create custom form layouts by building rules and logic that dynamically change fields based on selections made, ensuring required data has been provided before submission.

Re-populate repetitive information onto other forms to streamline the data entry process and eliminate repetitive manual entry, such as with applications and hiring forms.

Automatically route documents through defined workflow commands that send web form data to users via email notification and approval.

Leverage document capture automation to effortlessly collect data from all sources, creating a single process for working with critical information.

A library of options for managing both secured and public forms for any business use case from patient intake to expense reporting.
